

Non alcoholic beers 2022

Highly Rated

- Shipyard Low Tide (0.5%)
 - Tesco, Morrison's
 - Staple quaffable beer, drink from bottle! Keep a few in the fridge at all times. Seriously good beer for a hit summers day. Available in 500ml bottles.
- Big Drop, Paradise Citra IPA (0.5%)
 - Waitrose, online
 - Just drink this, it's spot on.
- Leffe (0.0%)
 - Tesco
 - Well substituted flavour for leffe, serve at 2°C use two bottles.
- Brooklyn special effects (0.4%)
 - Tesco, Waitrose, Morrison's, Sainsbury's
 - Available on draft at Dukes 92, only drink in pints
 - Bottles or OK but keep cold.
 - Overall decent tasting beer.
- Big Drop Galactic Milk Stout (0.5%)
 - Waitrose, online
 - The best AF stout I've had.
- Tiny Rebel clwb Tropica, Tropical IPA (0.5%)
 - Waitrose
 - Available at Waitrose
 - Fresh tropical taste with lingering bitter after taste.

Good for the soul

- Moretti Zero
 - Tesco, Morrison's
 - Just like moretti, a little sweet so exhaust the pallet beforehand.
- Adnams Ghost Ship (0.5%)
 - Tesco, Morrison's
- Bear drop IPA/Pale
 - Tebay services
 - Picked these up from Tebay services, all decent.
- Heineken (0%)

- Tesco, Morrison's
- How refreshing?
- Brewdog Punk AF (0.5%)
 - Tesco, brewdog
 - Good as a draft pint, a little too much lactose, tastes milky after a while.
- Erdinger Alkoholfrei
 - Tesco, Sainsbury's
 - Rated good as it is Isotonic, has health benefits.
 - Not a huge fan of the flavour, could only drink one of these.

 Meh ok if there's no other option

- Budweiser Probation (0%)
 - Tesco, Sainsbury's, Morrison's
 - Ok, just a shame it's in small cans. Drink this room temp, might as well as it doesn't deserve fridge space.
 - Southwold Pale Ale (0.5%) (Adnams Brewery)
 - M&S Food
 - Free Damm (0.0%)
 - Tesco, Waitrose, Sainsbury's
 - Ok very cold and with spicy food or sweet dish, too sweet for my liking so palate needs saturating with sugar beforehand.
 - A little 'soapy' for my liking
 - Doom Bar Zero Amber Ale
 - Tesco, Morrison's
 - I didn't mind this until tasting St Peter's Ale, I can no longer drink this without tasting tea bags.
 - If it weren't for the quantity of liquid in a doombar I wouldn't bother, it would sit below Becks.
-
- Becks Blue
 - Too many places
 - Unfortunately Beck's blue sits here, and for a good reason. I consider this lager to be the absolute bare minimum drinkable state of a non-alcoholic beverage.
 - Anything below this beer should be avoided like the plague.
 - It's sad that so many bars seem to think it is acceptable to stock only this beer as an option.

- I believe this lager would probably be fine on draft.

—

Totally Avoidable AF beers

- Guinness (0%)
 - Tesco
 - Guinness had a real opportunity to make a decent stout, instead they've jumped on the bandwagon to produce a poor boiled off version of their perfect alcoholic pint. Shame on you Guinness!

- M&S Low ALC. Pale Ale (Adnams brewery)
 - M&S Food
 - Carbonated, Malty and brown, tastes a little burnt. Over-boiled aroma.
 - Leave on the shelf and buy Beck's blue instead. Consider hiding this from other customers too.

- St Peter's Ale, alcohol free
 - Tesco
 - Tastes like a tea bag, literally the worst beer I've tried, would rather carbonate a cuppa (with the milk)